

Gloucester County Public Schools Educational Foundation

Gloucester Educational Foundation announces 2018-19 Teachers of the Year

The Gloucester Educational Foundation announced its 2018-19 Teachers of the Year who will be celebrated at an awards banquet on May 9.

The Foundation's annual Teacher of the Year award program rewards outstanding performers from every school in the county, and selects one Teacher of the Year to represent Gloucester in the state's regional competition. Teachers of the Year are chosen by their peers at each school.

This year's winners

This year's winners were Kelly Dalton from Abingdon Elementary; Sarah Clements from Achilles Elementary; Christina Deyoung from Bethel Elementary; Kimberly Roark from Botetourt Elementary; and Carla Williams from Petsworth Elementary. Middle school winners were Jacinda Glaser from Page; and Diana Chapman from Peasley. Gloucester High School winners were Kristen Heaney and Jackie Outten.

Overall winners

The overall elementary winner was first-grade teacher Kelly Dalton from Abingdon, and the overall middle school winner was seventh-grade English teacher Jacinda Glaser from Page.

The Gloucester High School winner was mathematics teacher Kristen Heaney, and Ms. Heaney also won the overall Teacher of the Year award for Gloucester. She will advance to Virginia's regional competition.

GCPS Educational Foundation

The GCPS Educational Foundation funds programs that enhance local schools, including the Teacher of the Year award program and mini-grants for teachers. More information about the Foundation is at tinyurl.com/gcpsedfoundation.